Objectifs :

You want to start a business but you're not sure where to begin? Let's brainstorm together to get you moving! In this training, you will find advice, methods and inspiring stories to learn how to identify promising venture ideas.

If you want to be an innovative entrepreneur, it doesn't matter if you don't have a business idea yet: the first thing you'll need is a high level of motivation and a few personal skills. I would like to walk you through this process of becoming an entrepreneur by giving you some advice and methods, a few hints, and also inspiring stories of other entrepreneurs. By the end of the course, you will know how to recognize business opportunities and analyze their potential.

Once you are done, I will show you in two other courses how to build your venture project and then launch it.

You will have to work on yourself and learn how to find your way in the jungle of innovation!

By the end of this training, you will be able to:

- Understand the nature of an entrepreneur
- Understand the common obstacles for entrepreneurs and startups
- Describe the basic process of beginning a new venture
- Understand the challenges of innovation
- Understand the skills necessary for innovation
- Understand some of the major recent accomplishments in innovation

This training receives government funding managed by the Agence Nationale de la Recherche (National Agency for Research) under the plan France 2030, with the reference ANR-21-EXES-0004.
